Why would you need a corporate risk assessment?

Managing corporate risk in all aspects of business is a key issue for all Directors and Managers and should be based on a principle called Health and Safety Guidance 65 (HSG65). This is the UK standard process for all occupational risks.

Driving at work is the largest unmanaged risk in the UK with over 1,000 driving at work deaths per year and 250,000 serious injuries; Directors need help in managing this risk. They want peace of mind that they comply with existing legislation as well as being able to defend the growing number of civil and third party insurance actions which could affect the reputation of the organisation.

Our solution covers both corporate and employee risk audits and compliance, whereas other companies' solutions only cover driver behaviour risks. It's simple and easy for you to complete and retain everything you could ever need to manage their road risks.

Why would you want a corporate and employee risk reduction plan?

You may want to:

- Reduce the number of at work accidents
- Make cost savings
- Achieve a return on the investment
- Find out who is driving at work in their own vehicles
- Improve staff accountability
- Protect the company reputation from any poor publicity
- Have a management process in place for due diligence
- Have a full audit trail that is HSE compliant at both company and employee level
- Protect the organisation and become compliant
- Protect the Directors and Managers against possible prosecution
- Monitor and improve your corporate and driver risk
- Have all the company/driver details and policies in one place
- Have a simple, cost effective solution for managing your road risk
